

Australia's Future Tax System Review Committee:

I am concerned that the ATFSR is considering recommendations to remove or change the dividend imputation system. The present scheme helps my desire to invest in Australian companies. To remove or alter the scheme would be an unfair and unnecessary retrograde step. I am also concerned that changing the scheme as it stands would negatively impact on the value of Australian companies in which I have invested who provide me with dividend income that include franking credits.

I hope you will take into consideration the impact of any recommendation you make on people like myself.

Robyn Heggen