

The proposal to review and perhaps cancel dividend imputation has serious implications for self funded retirees.

My wife and I are self funded retirees. Our super fund has decreased dramatically over the last 18 months, making us heavily dependent on income from our share portfolio.

If dividend imputation is axed, we will be forced to sell our shares at currently depleted values and to both apply for the old age pension.

Robert and Valerie LACK,
[removed for privacy reasons]