

Dear Sir/MS

We are self funded retirees and note with concern that there is a move to abolish dividend imputation which in our view has been a very fair system overall.

As self funded retirees our incomes would drop as would the income of our self managed super fund-in effect we would face double taxation again. Investment in Australian companies would drop having adverse effects on the Australian economy=reduction in company tax rate would have no effect on us or other self funded retirees.

We request that dividend imputation remain in place

Regards

Michael and Patricia Lunney

[removed for privacy reasons]