

I am writing to voice my support for the current system of recognising tax already paid by a company on dividends before they are received by an individual taxpayer. This is fair and equitable, encourages Australians to invest in Australia and prevents double taxation of the same money. Imputation credits add to the income of many self-funded retirees who have suffered much during the current stockmarket downturn and interest rate cuts. Thank you for considering my submission