

To Whom It May Concern,

I am extremely concerned to hear that it is being considered to remove or reduce the dividend imputation system. As a retiree who has a Self Managed Superannuation Fund (SMSF), I believe that eliminating the Imputation System will have a severe negative impact on my income, and all those retirees who rely on dividend income. It will also be a disincentive for us to invest in Australian companies at a time when it seems most important to do so.

The tax system should be supporting self reliance in retirement savings, which the current system encourages.

The removal of the dividend imputation system seems unfair, unnecessary and a retrograde step.

I feel so strong about this issue, that it well may affect the way I vote in the next election.

Please continue the Dividend Imputation Scheme without negative change.

Yours sincerely,

Peter Pamphilon

[removed for privacy reasons]