

I have recently read comments in the Sunday Mail (05.04.09) regarding changes to the Taxation System with regards to dividend imputations. It would seem to me that this would be a detrimental effect to self retirees, like myself, who rely on income from their share portfolios to maintain their existence without any help or assistance from the Federal Government eg pensions etc.

Regards