

To Whom It May Concern

As a self-funded I am totally against the Federal Government removing the imputation or franking credits that are attached to dividends.

This would set me back to such an extent that I would have to go back to work (if that is possible) to make ends meet.

I have never been the dole or taken anything from the Government so far to exist.

I have always been a labor supporter but this potential move makes me think Labor wishes to go back to the good old days of "double taxation".

Thoroughly disgussed if this information re removing imputation or franking credits is true.

Yours truely

Russell Wicks
[removed for privacy reasons]