

Dear Sir/Madam

Please take note of the issues raised by the New Internationalist--see:-

www.newint.com.au

specifically re Tax Justice---The four points they raise are each clearly relevant & NEEDED---at least on the face of the available information.

Point one would provide a LARGE NEW source of revenue to help finance the cost of Australia's needs---yes I acknowledge that certain revenues are likely already raised against foreign exchange traders---but I am sure that there is a huge potential market here---one which can clearly afford to pay, even a little.----The source is unlikely to be the down & out or the underdogs---it is likely to be the affluent party of Society, that part which can more afford to pay a little more.

Re Point two-----The trend allowing the better off more tax relief, etc., whilst not necessarily brought into being by your Gov't. is still able to be reversed, even ameliorated somewhat. Give those amongst us who are more needy a little help---this would help us help ourselves, rather than making us demand more Gov't/Pension support.

Thank you for reading to here. Regards Bob Madell.
