

The vast majority of Australian dwellings and commercial buildings are far from energy and water efficient. To make these badly needed renovations affordable, why not make them tax deductible? Also, why not make them GST free as well?

David Scolyer