

I wish to express my disappointment in the inequalities embedded in our Australian Tax system.

I find it offensive that the wealthier members of our society easily find ways to avoid paying tax (and often boast about it).

I also find it offensive that the trade in money, which produces little except more wealth for the already wealthy, does not return a positive benefit to our society.

Regards,
Laurie Lang